Classic Car Service Log

Write down what you did, not just what the manual lists. It is better to mark a reading or service date unknown than to guess.

Year / make / model

Engine / transmission / drivetrain

Original market / schedule label (if applicable)

Manual edition / publication ID

Odometer unit: mi / km / unknown

Odometer changed, rolled over, or unknown?

Service and inspection records

For each job, say what happened: inspected, adjusted, lubricated, replaced, or left for later. Record oil and filter separately if only one was changed.

Date	Odometer and unit	Work done (include the action)	Manual page or receipt	Notes / shop or DIY

For your next reminder: check the original schedule label, the factory reference page, and whether the interval is time-based, mileage-based, or whichever comes first.

This is a record sheet, not a factory maintenance schedule. Keep it with the manual and receipts.
